

Clara - Age 14

This poem is for our soldiers
The people we thank today
Who freely risked their lives
To them we shout hooray

They fought in hope of freedom
So we could live happily
We're grateful as we needed them
For the safety of you and me

75 years on from when Germany surrendered
Every help will continue to be remembered
We think of so many lives that were lost
And the soldiers who fought in sun, rain and frost

The toughest people any one knows
Are the warriors that fought for freedom in the swallowing snow
They live on as a token of our past
Because they fought in hope of peace at last

In their minds, they hoped we'd be free
And tried to prevent a world war three
In 1945 they stepped their last step on the battlefield
In hope of never stepping foot again; with a sword nor shield

We thank the medical side and frontline
Britain can proudly call you mine
You may lay in success of upmost freedom
You saved many countries like the United Kingdom

Fearsome
Reassuring
Empowering
Endurance
Difficulty
Obeying
Magnificent

This poem is for our soldiers
The people we thank today
Who freely risked their lives
To them we shout hooray!
